Ocean Beach May Endeavor To Establish Local Government

Ocean Beach chamber of commerce directors in their meeting Monday evening instructed their secretary to write the attorney general of the State of California to see what steps were necessary for the Ocean Beach area to secede from the city of San Diego, and again be governed by the county administration or set up a separate incorporation of its own.

There has been a steadily growing sentiment for several years past that this section was not receiving its just consideration from the city hall or any of its branches. Justifiable requests are made many times by various citizen groups, and if any attention at all, promises are usually the only result, with no action taken as requested. There have been numerous attempts to receive improvement of importance, many times the cost to be limited to only a nominal amount, yet those who sit in the saddle, see that improvements and necessary upkeep is in the districts where their personal interest lies.

The section tentatively selected to withdraw from city is reported Catalina Blvd. to the ocean, Point Loma avenue on the south to W. Point Loma avenue and Mission bay on the north, including Loma Alta Nos. 1 and 2.

New Stakes Set For Tide Line at Bay

Last week Norman O. Glover, local surveyor, accompanied Surveyor Atherton of the State Engineer's office, in work around Mission bay where they checked state surveys as well as the old Hays survey as near as possible, in an effort to establish tide lines that will definitely make possible the property lines of private individuals and make certain the lines upon which Mission State park will be established.

This work has been very very necessary for several years and has held up development of recreational facilities by the city of San Diego on the Ocean Beach side of the bay, as well as other improvement of consequence.

$20,000 New Home For LaPlaya Section

Building continues at a good pace all over the Point Loma district. Nearly 100 new homes will have been built during the year in this district by the end of 1935. The Loma Portal section has built many fine homes. Ocean Beach has built some twenty or more. The improvement has continued pretty well all over the Point.

La Playa will get a new home costing $20,000 or more shortly. A building permit issued this week to Roy Giddings, 635 San Elijo street, calls for a frame residence and garage. This new structure will be near the U.S. Naval reservation gate at La Playa.

This project is in amount of $651,000 and will include the Mission Beach sea wall, and the Pacific Beach highway project on the east side of the bay to Pacific Beach. The state will sponsor the development and authorities hope the money will be allocated at once.

Shops For High School Delayed Two Months

The Board of Education Monday decided to give architects who say they can reduce the cost of the proposed Point Loma High School shop building a chance to prove their claims.

Last week bids were opened on a balloon type steel structure. The low bid was $31,664. Architects John S. Siebert and Frank Hope offered to save the board "at least $5000" by planning a concrete building of the same general design.

The Board requested the district attorney to prepare a contract with Siebert and Hope, agreeing to pay them six percent of the contract price as their commission if they can save $5000 net to the Board.

That is, if the bids do not exceed $25,000, the architects will get six percent running the total cost to about $26,500. If the bid lands between $25,000 and $26,500 the architects will take a proportionate fee cut. Should the bid be over $26,500 the architects would get nothing.

Ray Reynolds, Board member, objected to making the new plans, declaring that the school is forced to hold classes in its corridors and needs the building immediately. Siebert estimated it would take six weeks to have the new plans ready to work. The original plans, drawn by the Board's salaried architect, William Wheeler, have state approval and are ready for work this week.

While on the subject of building for schools, the Board learned that work is to start Oct. 21 on the four-room addition to Alice Birney school. It is to be done under WPA at an approximate cost of $30,000.

Superintendent Will Crawford was advised to investigate the necessity of an addtion of Mission Beach. If the room can be added for less than $4000, it is likely it will be approved. Work under that amount does not need state permission.

No Mattoon Act in Ocean Beach or Point Loma

Home Owner Says No Assurance Bond Approval Would Really Prove Great Benefit.

OCTOBER 14, 1935.

Editor Ocean Beach News.
Ocean Beach, California.

I think the voters of San Diego county who are all taxpayers, directly or indirectly, should be very careful about being influenced too much by the propaganda that is being spread all over the county in favor of the so called Mattoon Settlement Bonds.

There are several questions that we voters, not in any Mattoon district should have answered before we are led to vote in favor of these bonds on October 29.

First, who is putting up the money for all this propaganda. Can it be that the Bondholders are trying to unload some bad investments on to the taxpayers of San Diego county? Have you ever heard of that being done before in San Diego? And the only way to do it, is just by this kind of propaganda; saying "it is going to reduce taxes etc." I have never seen taxes reduced by voting bonds yet.

This county was flooded by propaganda when they were putting the Mattoon Bonds over on the districts several years ago. The people in the proposed districts were so influenced by propaganda, put out by the paving contractors, and bond buyers, that they wouldn't listen to any opposition at any of their public meetings. The result was, those that were opposed to it were intimidated so that they stayed away from the meetings.

Of course all the property owners in these Mattoon districts are in favor of the bond issue, we can't blame them. They get into a bad mess, and now they want the balance of the county to help them pay. Even we taxpayers that refused to allow the Mattoon plan to be used in our districts, such as Ocean Beach, Mission Beach and Point Loma, and who had our paving and other improvements done under the 1911 Act; we have either paid, or are paying on the 10 year plan. Incidentally if we don't pay we lose our property and a great many have lost it.

Now in regard to some of these districts, that they tell us would come back on the tax rolls if we vote these bonds. The Causeway district is probably the biggest district of all it is by far the most valuable. It includes all of La Jolla, Pacific Beach and part of Dutch Flats, also Crown Point. This district is fully able to pay their assessments without asking a penny from the balance of San Diego county, and if they thought they had to pay or lose thier property they would pay quick enough. Most of the delinquencies in this district is on vacant property in Pacific Beach and Crown Point and isn't caused by the Mattoon act, but is because they have put in all the street improvements and sewers under the 1911 act. This put an assessment against these individual lots far in excess of their actual value, just as was done in part of Ocean Beach and Point Loma. Many vacant lots in Ocean Beach and Point Loma have stopped paying taxes on account of these paving assessments, in fact Azure Vista the south side of Sunset Cliffs is almost 100 per cent delinquent on the vacant property, not on account of any Mattoon act, but on account of paving bonds, maybe, if the other taxpayers of the county would pay off these assessments, they would all start paying their taxes again.

If the Mattoon act caused all the delinquencies in the Causeway districts, why is it that there are so many delinquencies in Mission Beach, Ocean Beach, Point Loma and in fact all over San Diego where we have no Mattoon act? I really don't believe that the Mattoon act has very much to do with the delinquencies in the Causeway district.

Now in regard to these other districts, such as Valencia Park, Rolando, the eastern part of Market and the Broadway extension and numerous other ones just east of the city limits. These districts are composed mostly of worthless property that has been subdivided by promoters, who bought it up at from $50 to $150 per acre. They put in all the improvements under the Mattoon act. Then sold it to innocent purchasers at from $500 to $2000 per lot. They encouraged the County Assessor, thru the Tax Factors, to put fictitious values on the lots, so as to have a better market for the Mattoon bonds. In fact I sometimes think they had a lot to do with bringing the Tax Factors into San Diego.

These promoters expected to unload all of the lots on the public before the first assessments were due. They did succeed in unloading part of it, but most of it is still in their hands or the hands of the Banks, Investment Companies, or who-ever might have loaned them money on it.

Unfortunately in forming these districts a great many small ranch owners and other innocent property owners had their holdings included in the districts, a great many over their protests. I certainly sympathize with them, but in a way, as long as they don't want to sell or borrow money, which they probably couldn't do anyhow at the present time, they are better off than most other parts of San Diego, as they can't lose title to their property for street paving as can be done where the paving is assessed against each individual lot.

Probably 98 per cent of the property in these districts is vacant lots, and isn't worth the amount of taxes due on it, even if the Mattoon act was wiped out entirely. As I said befre most of it was bought up by promoters at from $50 to $150 per acre, and that is all it is worth now. If the Mattoon act was taken off it would still remain off the tax rolls as it was assessed for several years at fictitious values, and nobody would ever pay the back taxes until it became more valuable, which would probably be ten years or longer, as San Diego is over subdivided.

As to the small per centage of property that is improved in these districts, no doubt it would immediately go back on the tax rolls, but these people can retain possession of their property, and live in it, or rent it indefinitely as it is, so why ask the balance of the county to assume this load. The taxes on it will be paid some day.

There is not even any guarantee that these bond holders will sell at the figures set for their bonds. Have any of the districts signed up 100 per cent or even 75 per cent? If the county buys a few of the bonds at the figure set, and can't get any more at that figure, then the agitation will start to pay more and more until all the bond money will be used up, and then they will want to vote some more bonds. What guarantee have we that they won't pay any more than what they say they intend to pay. The only way for the taxpayers to be safe, is to have that part ironclad. There shuld be no way whereby they could legally, pay any more than the price set.

It looks very much to me, that if we vote these bonds the taxpayers are going to be the goat.

It has been called to my attention that our County Assessor, James Hervey Johnson, who has been against all bonds, is for these bonds. There is one thing certain that James Hervey Johnson wouldn't be for any bonds unless he was going to benefit personally by the passing of the bonds. I don't know whether the voters of San Diego county know or not, but practically all of Johnson's and his families' real estate lie in Pacific Beach, several hundred lots altogether, just think what it would mean to him if we other taxpayers assumed the Mattoon bonds in the district where his property is located. Perhaps that is the reason he is for the bonds.

I also understand that P. F. O'Rourke, another opponent to all bond issues, is for these bonds, I don't know whether Pat owns any property in any Mattoon district, or owns any Mattoon bonds. But I do know that he and Johnson stands on the same side of the fence on practically any issue that comes up before the people. Maybe he wants to help his friend Johnson.

Unlike the two citizens named above, I do not vote against all bond issues that come up. If I think they are for the interest of the City or County, such as the Lindbergh field, dredging the harbor and the civic center bonds, I vote for them. Such bonds I think improve the city, puts men to work and is of benefit to every citizen and taxpayer.

But I can't see the Mattoon settlement bonds. Maybe if I had some property in one of the districts or if I owned some Mattoon bonds, it would be different.

Yours very truly,
"Ocean Beach Home Owner"

MEMBERS HEAR ABOUT CONVENTION AT MONTEREY

I. J. Claspill was chairman of the Kiwanis luncheon meeting Wednesday, giving each of the delegates who attended the Monterey convention last week, an opportunity to tell of some of the high lights of the gathering.

The local club was represented by President Ed Wickern, president-elect Frank R. Felt and Milton Lancaster.

Lancaster spoke first and reported on the social activities of the organization that he and Mrs. Lancaster attended. He thought it was highly entertaining and one of most inspirational meetings he had ever been to.

Ed Wickern reported on attendance, election of officers, place of meeting in November, 1936, (Riverside) and of proposed betterments advised in civic affairs.

Dr. Felt gave a more detailed account of the sessions, practically all of which he attended, said some of the talks and repartee was equal to anything that should come from the highest class gatherings. The speaker said it was the concencus of opinion that Kiwanis as a whole should during the coming year bend their efforts toward spiritual building and civic betterment, rather than for material benefits to the organization.

All three delegates were highly delighted with the reception at Del Monte hotel and all convention proceedings.

T. J. Miller of Seattle was a guest of Dr. Felt for the Wednesday meeting and C. D. Larkin of the La Jolla club was a visitor.

Speeches by President on Western Trip

TRAVELING rapidly to the Pacific coast for some fishing, President Roosevelt delivered several important addresses. The first was at Fremont, Neb., where he spoke to about 15,000 farmers and was enthusiastically received. Mr. Roosevelt set forth the chief accomplishments of his administration to date, and challenged his opponents to do better. He defended the legality of the New Deal doings and made it plain that he would continue to carry on experiments for the welfare of the people. Defining his idea of constitutional government, he said its true function is "to promote the general welfare, not by interfering unduly with individual liberties, but by bringing to the aid of the individual those powers of government which are essential to assure the continuance of the inalienable rights which the Constitution is intended to guarantee. It is democracy in the good old American sense of the word."

President Roosevelt

Coming to the AAA, in which his hearers might be supposed to be most vitally interested, the President asserted that "agricultural adjustment is an expression in concrete form of the human rights those farmer patriots sought to win when they stood at the bridge at Concord, when they proclaimed the Declaration of Independence, and when they perpetuated these ideals by the adoption of the Constitution."

No matter what attempts may be made to tear it down, "the principle of farm equality expressed by agricultural adjustment will not die," the President told the crowd.

The AAA has made "honorable history," the President declared, and as a result, smoke is pouring from chimneys again and workers without regular jobs are obtaining employment.

He served notice that it is the purpose of his administration to "use every square mile of the United States for the purpose to which it is best adapted." Nature must be harnessed instead of despoiled, he asserted.

At Boulder Dam the President assisted in the dedication of the great project and delivered an address in which he announced that government spending for employment purposes was nearing its end and that now private industry must take up the burden of decreasing the army of the unemployed. He defended the administration against the charges of "boondoggling" and said its efforts "meet with the approval of the people of the nation." He touched only lightly on the power question. Secretary Ickes, who also spoke, said Boulder Dam should be re-named Johnson Dam, in honor of Senator Hiram Johnson.

Again at Los Angeles in the Hollywood Bowl and at San Diego the Chief Executive delivered adddesses, and then he went to catch some fish.

High Cost of Living Is Subject of Inquiry

OBEYING the instructions of the President, the federal trade commission has begun a survey to determine why the cost of living is mounting so high. Several members of the commission's staff started the investigation in Detroit, where the housewives staged a meat strike some weeks ago. Other members of the staff will take up the work in Chicago, and later the inquiry will be carried on in other centers. The agricultural income especially is to be investigated.

Illinois Republicans for Knox for Presidency

COL. FRANK KNOX, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, is now an accredited candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, for he has received the indorsement of the Republican state central committee of Illinois. Colonel Knox has been in a receptive mood for a long time and has traveled all over the country making speeches. In various unofficial straw votes he has been placed second, only Senator Borah being preferred to him.

Col. Frank Knox

Addressing the Illinois central committee, Colonel Knox said: "I have been from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from West Virginia on north, and everywhere I find that the Republicans not only think that they will be victorious but they have a deep sense of responsibility to rescue the country from the hands of socialists."

Budget Summation Shows Reduction in Deficits

IN A "budget summation" given out at Washington by order of the President it is shown that the federal deficits will be reduced by more than a billion and a quarter from the original estimates, because economic conditions have grown "decidedly better" and tax receipts are higher than was expected. The estimated deficit for the current fiscal year will be $3,281,000,000.

"The prevailing rate of recovery," the President said, "points to the speedy decline of federal expenditures for emergency activities."

Unless the AAA's processing taxes are knocked out by the Supreme court, he argued, the government "will not need new taxes or increased rates in existing taxes to meet the expenses of its necessary annual operations."

Van Sweringens Recover Railway Empire

VAN SWERINGEN brothers have regained control over the vast railway and real estate empire they built and lost to New York bankers. At the height of the boom this was valued at $3,000,000,000. It was taken by a banking group when the Van Sweringens defaulted on loans of $48,000,000 and was put up at auction. The brothers regained control for $3,121,000 by bidding in the majority stock of the Alleghany corporation, holding company for all but one of the so-called Van Sweringen roads, including the Chesapeake & Ohio, Pere Marquette, Nickel Plate, Missouri Pacific, and Chicago & Eastern Illinois, and the Van Sweringen corporation through which the brothers ruled their vast real estate possessions.

War in Ethiopia Growing Nearer Day by Day

ITALY having rejected the peace plan proposed by the League of Nations committee of five, and Ethiopia having accepted it, the committee reported to the league council that its efforts to solve the problem were futile. The council thereupon held a public meeting and adopted unanimously the recommendation of its president, Enrique Ruiz Guinazu of Argentina, that it proceed under article 15 of the covenant, drafting a report and recommendations of the Italo-Ethiopian embroglio.

Anthony Eden

A feature of the council's session was an address by Capt. Anthony Eden, British minister for league affairs. Conversations in Rome between British Ambassador Sir Eric Drummond and Premier Mussolini had led some to think Great Britain was weakening, but Eden announced his government was "steadfastly determined to abide by its policy" as previously declared.

Emperor Haile Selassi wired the league requesting that in view of the "increasing provocative attitude of Italy" neutral observers be dispatched to Ethiopia to establish responsibility in case a clash occurs.

The Ethiopian ruler notified the league that he could not delay general mobilization much longer, in view of the "increasing gravity of Italian aggression," but he decided to wait a little longer for action by the league before calling to arms his warriors, whose number he estimates at 2,000,000.

Mussolini, who asserted he expected Ethiopia would soon assault Italy's colonies proceeded to put 250,000 troops in east Africa. Nearly every day vessels left for Eritrea carrying large bodies of soldiers. On one of them went Prince Adelberto of Savoy, cousin of King Victor Emmanuel. In addition to the Italian troops, Mussolini will have half as many native fighters from Eritrea and Somaliland. The duce intimated he would quit the League of Nations if it took any action against Italy, but he also offered to negotiate an accord with Great Britain.

The British asked France to define its attitude should any nation attack the empire, and soon after Sir Samuel Hoare replied to France's questions regarding the British attitude toward possible trouble on the continent. The foreign secretary assured France that Great Britain would always support collective action against any aggressor.

Florida Narrowly Escapes Another Hurricane

ANOTHER fierce hurricane from the Caribbean swept across the middle part of Cuba, causing more than a score of deaths and doing vast property damage, and then seemed to be heading directly for southern Florida. The residents there made all possible preparations for safety, but the storm suddenly veered and roared off to the northeast over the Atlantic.

Liner Goes Aground but No Lives Are Lost

THE Holland-American liner Rotterdam, on a West Indian pleasure cruise, went aground on Morant Cays, 40 miles east of Jamaica, in fine weather, because of "an unaccountable shift" in the current. Her 460 passengers and 250 members of the crew were safely and comfortably transferred to the British steamer Ariguani and landed at Kingston, Jamaica. The Rotterdam was little injured.

American Legion Elects Ray Murphy Commander

AMERICAN Legionnaires in convention in St. Louis adopted with shouts of approval a resolution for active opposition to "nazi-ism, fascism, communism and other isms contrary to the principles enunciated in the Constitution." Still cheering, the delegates followed that up by asking the withdrawal of United States recognition of soviet Russia.

The veterans commended recent legislation for national defense and called for a larger army, continuation of the officers' training camps, the C. M. T. C. and R. O. T. C. in schools, and for a navy equal to any in the world. They asked all nations to work for world peace, and approved the neutrality resolution of the last congress.

Cleveland, Ohio, was awarded the 1936 annual convention after four ballots. The national American Legion band championship was won by the Chicago Board of Trade post musicians.

At their final session the veterans elected J. Ray Murphy of Ida Grove, Iowa, national commander, and passed a resolution demanding immediate cash payment of the soldiers' bonus. Vice commanders chosen were: Raymond A. Gales of Virginia; W. E. Whitlock of South Carolina, Whitney Godwin of Florida, Oscar Worthwine of Idaho, Lou Probst of Wyoming.

Senator Lewis, Ill in Moscow, Is Recovering

THE many friends of Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois were glad to learn that he was recovering from the attack of pneumonia that laid him up in Moscow for several weeks. For a time it was feared the illness would have a fatal outcome because the senator's heart was weak. Late dispatches said he was able to take nourishment but the physicians could not tell how soon he would be in condition to travel.

Ernest P. Bicknell of Red Cross Taken by Death

ERNEST P. BICKNELL, for 27 years prominent in the American Red Cross, died in Washington at the age of seventy-three soon after his return from Hawaii. He was vice chairman in charge of insular and foreign operations of the Red Cross and directed relief of the San Francisco earthquake; floods in the Ohio and Mississippi rivers; the Cherry and other mine disasters; forest fires and many catastrophies abroad, including the Messina earthquake in Italy.

V. F. Ridder Will Succeed Gen. Hugh Johnson

GEN. HUGH JOHNSON will soon be out of a job again, for on October 15 he retires from the position of works progress administrator for New York city. This is in accordance with a previous agreement with President Roosevelt. He is to be succeeded by Victor F. Ridder, publisher of the German language newspaper New Yorker Staats-Zeitung und Herold and the New York Journal of Commerce.

Williams Says Business Must Share With Workers

AUBREY WILLIAMS, first assistant to Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins, said in an interview that the unemployment problem will not be solved in a business pick-up unless industry "shares increased business with the workers." He asserted that the present gain in business has put few more people to work, and explained this fact by attributing it primarily to increased efficiency which permits employers to produce more goods than before with fewer employees.

Aubrey Williams

Williams said there had been a drop in the number of people on relief, but he attributed this largely to a "hard-boiled" policy under which the rolls were combed of ineligibles.

"As fast as they go from relief to jobs, we get as many new ones on relief who have exhausted their savings," he asserted. "We have become pretty darned hard-boiled on relief.

"Even the National Industrial Conference board says there is more unemployment now than a year ago," he continued. "Business absorbs new business without increasing employment. They get a dividend out of it, but no new jobs are given. We are not feeling any benefit as far as most of our clients are concerned."

By executive order the President added $800,000,000 to the sum which Harry Hopkins has to spend as PWA administrator, making the total at his command $1,375,000,000.

Republicans Will Open Chicago Headquarters

REPUBLICAN national committeemen met in Washington and began the serious preparation of the Presidential campaign. It was decided unanimously that the party efforts in the western states should be most vigorous and should begin immediately. Headquarters will soon be opened in Chicago with National Committeeman Harrison Spengler of Iowa in charge, and funds were allocated for its expenses.

The committee did not discuss candidates or the selection of a convention city. The latter will not be chosen until the winter meeting. At present Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City are the leading contenders, with the last named in good position because of its new air conditioned convention hall.

HARBOR BED YIELDS DEATH CAR

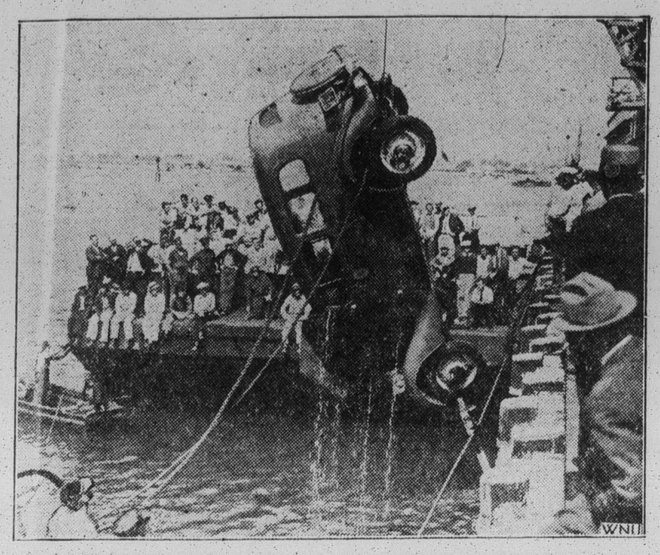

Photo shows the ill-fated auto, in which were found the bodies of Henry Steinhuer, 60, and his wife, Nellie, being raised from 30 feet of water in San Pedro harbor. Director of the search for the car was Leroy Drake, 19-year-old nephew of the Steinhuers, who confessed placing poison in the coffee of the middle-aged couple. Later, he said, he placed the bodies in the car and drove it off a pier.

CAUTION KEYNOTE OF CAMPAIGNS

Photo shows a San Francisco police officer instructing a school lad to cross the street with proper caution as part of the Bay city's campaign to instill safety habits in youngsters. Various safety campaigns throughout the state are beginning with the observance of National Safety Week this week.

Immigrant to Judge

Leon R. Yankwich, who came to America as a Rumanian immigrant lad, has recently been appointed by President Roosevelt to one of the country's highest honors, the U. S. District Court bench. He will preside at Los Angeles.

Peace has descended on San Francisco's strike-torn waterfront. Following the ruling of Federal Arbitrator M. C. Sloss in which he held that longshoremen should handle "hot cargo," Harry Bridges, longshoremen leader, announced that stevedores would handle all cargo. This means that there will be no discrimination against loading and unloading goods which are involved in strikes of other unions.

Actress Marries

Confirming romance rumors, Sylvia Sidney, film star pictured above, marries Bennett Cerf, New York publisher, this week. Her marriage will not interfere with her screen career; she has just signed a long-term contract.

"Republicans, young and old, are aroused from the lethargic state of the defeatist attitude so prevalent in the party a year ago," declared Robert F. Craig, Republican Assembly secretary and chairman of arrangements for the Republican convention which is being held in Oakland, October 4-6. The convention will be attended by party leaders from all over the west. Former President Herbert Hoover and Governor Frank F. Merriam will be headline speakers.

Bedtime Story for Children

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

LIGHTFOOT BECOMES UNCERTAIN

LIGHTFOOT the Deer traveled on through the Green Forest straight ahead in the direction from which the Merry Little Breezes were blowing. Every few steps he would raise his delicate nose and test all the scents that the Merry Little Breezes were bringing. As long as he kept the Merry Little Breezes blowing in his face he could be sure whether or not there was danger ahead of him. You see, the Merry Little Breezes delight in carrying all sorts of scents, and Lightfoot's nose is so wonderful that even though those scents be very, very faint he can catch them and tell just what they are.

Lightfoot uses his nose very much as you and I use our eyes. It tells him the things he wants to know. He knew that Reddy Fox had been along ahead of him although he didn't get so much as a glimpse of Reddy's red coat. Once he caught just the faintest of scents which caused him to stop abruptly and test the air more carefully than ever. It was the scent of Buster Bear. It was so very faint that Lightfoot knew Buster was not near, so he went ahead again, but even more carefully than before. After a little he couldn't smell Buster at all so he know then that Buster had simply passed that way going to some other part of the Green Forest.

So Lightfoot knew that he had nothing to fear in that direction so long as the Merry Little Breezes brought him none of the dreaded man-scent, and he knew that he could trust the Merry Little Breezes to bring him that scent if there should be a man anywhere in that direction. The Merry Little Breezes are Lightfoot's best friends. But Lightfoot didn't want to keep going in that direction all day. It would take him far away from that part of the Green Forest with which he was familiar and which he called home. It might in time take him out of the Green Forest, and that wouldn't do at all. So after a while Lightfoot became uncertain. He didn't know just what to do. You see, he couldn't tell whether or not that hunter with the terrible gun was still following him.

Every once in a while he would stop in a thicket of young trees or behind a tangle of fallen trees uprooted by the wind. There he would stand facing the direction from which he had come and watch and listen for some sign that the hunter was still following. But after a few minutes of this he would grow uneasy and then bound away in the direction from which the Merry Little Breezes were blowing so as to be sure of not running into danger.

"If only I could know if that hunter is still following I would know better what to do," thought Lightfoot. "I've got to find out."

BURNING LEAVES

By ANNE CAMPBELL

IT SEEMS as if the whole lost summer grieves
When we are burning leaves,
So melancholy is the smoky scent
Of this fall sacrament.
It was a few short weeks ago they hung
In lively green, and flung
Their shade upon the heedless passers-by,
And challenged the blue sky.

Now in a wooden basket, drab and brown,
They are pulled down;
They who in such high place were shimmering
Since early spring.
There is in burning leaves a sense of loss,
As in we toss
The match, and watch them perish in a breath. . . .
This, then, is Death!

QUESTION BOX

by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am a woman forty-three years of age and the only offer of marriage I have ever had was last night. I met a fellow at a party and he was drunk. He proposed marriage to me. He seems all right but I told him to sober up and then ask me to marry him. Did I do right?

Sincerely,
I. M. HOMELY.

Answer: Yes and no. He may not want you when he's sober.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
Some time ago I wrote you for an answer for the following example: "If coal is $10 a ton how many tons would I get for $50? Your answer said I would get four tons. Why did you say that, when it isn't right?

Yours truly,
CON. SUE. MER.

Answer: You asked me if coal was $10 a ton and you gave the coal man $50 how many tons would you get? I said you'd get four tons. I know it isn't right, BUT that's what you'd get.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
Do chestnuts have legs?

Yours truly,
I. M. WORRIED.

Answer: No, my dear friend, chestnuts do not have legs. You must have swallowed a worm.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am interested in the "Little Theatre Movement." I have interested some rich men and they are building a very odd theater. There will be no rows of seats, only boxes. In other words every person who comes to see our plays will be in a box. Can you suggest a fitting name for our odd theater?

Truly yours,
OPPER E. HOUSE.

Answer: As the "Little Theatre Movement" is popular, and as you have no rows of seats, and as you will probably do a big business, and pack the boxes, why not call it "The Sardine"?

Dear Mr. Wynn:
My wife fights with me all the time because I won't get my hair cut. I claim it looks good, but she says it is too long. Do you think I should have it cut short?

Yours truly,
BOB BURR.

Answer: The only trouble with a man having his hair cut short is that he is often mistaken for his wife.

MINUTE MAKE-UPS

The beauty of your face and the smart appearance of your clothes depend this season on your carriage. To obtain a regal bearing, practice walking with a book balanced on your head, shoulders thrown back so far that you may hook your elbows through a broom handle. A stately stature will have much to do with smartness of any costume and the effectiveness of coiffure and make-up.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

UNUSUAL DISHES

WE ALL like to serve occasionally something a bit different and out of the ordinary, but for the daily diet the common foods simply served we enjoy the best.

Golden Coconut Shortcake.

Allow two slices of sponge cake for each serving. Prepare orange sauce by using one cup of orange juice thickened with corn starch, adding a bit of sugar and butter. Cover each slice of the cake with the sauce in sandwich fashion, cover with thinly sliced oranges and top with freshly grated and sweetened coconut.

Maple Junket.

Dissolve one junket tablet in a tablespoon of cold water, add to a pint of lukewarm milk a little almond flavoring and a half cup of maple sirup. Serve with the top of the sherbet glasses sprinkled with grated maple sugar or sprinkle with finely shredded almonds.

Stuffed Tomato Salad.

Scoop out the centers of six ripe even sized tomatoes. Chop the centers and add one cup of cooked rice, four tablespoons of cheese grated, one hard cooked egg, two tablespoons of pimiento and one small onion, all minced; season with salt, a little lemon juice and any other desired seasoning. Fill the tomato cups and chill. Serve on lettuce with salad dressing.

Pot of Gold Dessert.

Mix one-half cup of sugar with one-fourth cup of cornstarch, add a bit of salt and a cupful of rich milk, one cup of orange juice and when cooked until smooth and thick in a double boiler add two tablespoons of butter and the well beaten yolks of two eggs. Let cook until smooth. Serve molded in individual molds, with whipped cream.

Small slim pickles may be cut into very thin slices, without cutting way to the stem end of the pickle, then spread out the slices in the form of a fan and use as garnish for sandwiches or the sandwich plate.

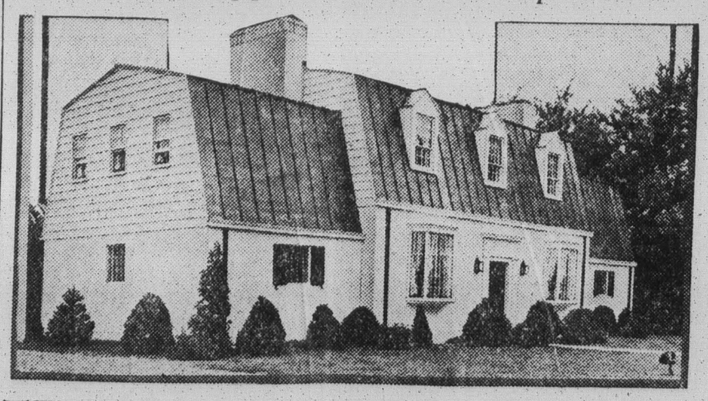
First Copper House Is Completed



THIS copper house has just been erected at Bethesda, Md., by a subsidiary of one of the big copper corporations and is open to the public for inspection. The new dwelling is the first of its kind in this country. Hardwood floors are built over a fire-proof sub-floor, and inside walls are plastered on metal laths. The house is completely air-conditioned. The cost of these houses depends on size and design, with present designs ranging upwards from $4,500.

JELLY IS BETTER WHEN PREPARED IN SMALL LOTS

"Make jelly in small lots. Use a large, flat-bottomed saucepan. Carry the entire process through promptly." These are tips on jelly-making from women in the bureau of home economics who for years have studied the behavior of fruit juices and sugar when combined to make jellies.

An ideal jelly, they say, has a bright color, delicate flavor, and a translucent texture. It holds its shape when turned out on a plate, but quivers when the plate is moved. Perfect jelly should be so tender that it cuts easily with a spoon, yet shows a sharp face.

Such jellies cannot be produced in wholesale amounts. When extracting the juice, it is easiest to prepare and handle about 6 quarts of currants or berries or 8 pounds of apples or grapes at a time. Large masses of fruit pulp drip too long and the bags are not handled easily.

In cooking the juice and sugar together it is important to reach as rapidly as possible the point where the sirup will jell. This is the reason a large, flat bottomed saucepan is best—evaporation takes place more rapidly from a broad surface. When the jelly stage is reached, cooking must be stopped immediately, the sirup skimmed and put promptly into hot, sterilized glasses to set. Prolonged cooking affects the flavor and color and sometimes the jellying power of the juice.

It sometimes is better to use more than one drip bag. If there is a large amount of fruit on hand, a fresh lot can be prepared and cooking started as soon as the first lot has finished dripping. Some fruits are so rich in jelly-making power that two extractions of juice can be made from the same fruit. These may be mixed.

Husband Seekers Taxed

The shortage of marriageable men at Inngyen, China, has become so acute that young women must pay $5 to the city for permits to seek mates. The levy is called the "young woman's tax." If a woman marries without such a permit she is liable to fine and imprisonment.

THE MADNESS OF CAESAR.

Il Duce is setting before the world an example of the most extensive form of wickedness to be conceived in warfare today. The defying spirit he possesses not only ranks him as a violator of international peace rules, but a dictator of crazy madness. He is lacking in military principles and as cruel as Caesar of old.

Mussolini has the ill-will of world opinion. He is bringing his country to the limit of disrepute by every nation for his lavish disregard of sparing innocent and helpless people. In his lust for conquest and overlordship, he has mounted to the highest pinnacle of human treachery and savagery. He is sowing to the wind and will reap the whirlwind.

Thus are the spoils of war! Il Duce has been the subject of major troubles at Geneva, for some years past; he has broken the bonds of peace and proved himself the "unruly schoolboy" in every peace conference. He has defied compromises and turned a deaf ear to the greatest force for world peace and economic order. Commercially he has rejected co-operative standards in order to sanction his private rule.

He is in league with the war dogs, who promulgate conflicts and promote munition factories to stir up strife. The four years of the late world war created in the United States, 22,000 new millionaires. This same war would have provided a $2500 home with $1000 worth of furniture and five acres of land for every family in most of the European nations, Canada, the United States and Australia; would have given every city over 20,000 population a $2,000,000 library, a $3,0000,000 hospital and a $20,000,000 college. This gives some idea of the cost of war!

The field of sports is running high with added enthusiasm and interest as the climax and the goal comes nearer. The closing moments and victory on the base ball diamonds has been settled and the honors bestowed. Detroit Tigers won their first world's championship. Cheering America, 120 million strong, has responded famously. Now, all sporting fans are turning their game eyes to foot ball. California has an interesting fall program for the athletic campus, and the pennants are in waiting to be given to the stars as they gain coveted laurels. Year by year athletic contests have shown increasing vigor. It has become the hope and foundation of culture and character for both student and maturing adult. This, of course, is based upon a correctly superintended course of training. Turning back the years of the calendar three-quarters of a century when little or no accent was stressed over the educational advantages, depending on scientifio sporting and athletic exercise. The conclusion today is that the mind is better fitted for grasping and storing away these benefits from scientifie play, sports and athletic contests.

Human needs and wants are two different things. All that we want is not what we need; in fact we can get along without most of the things we want. Our needs are important and should come first. It is hard to be deprived of the needs of body and soul! Hunger must come first to sustain life; bodily raiment is next in importance to give comfort and alleviate suffering. What is true of individuals is also the same with governments or nations. As one looks out over a nervous nation almost in bankruptcy, it need not take much thinking to guess a correct panacea for the ills of today. It is not altogether food and raiment, but social benefits or justice, economic equality for both men and women; world peace and a great regard for the enduring things of life—spiritual leadership.

The President is doing politics at the proper time, just as the political pot is beginning to simmer. He has begun by rendering his stewardship of the most spectacular and extraordinary administration the American people have ever known. Just now he is on a fishing trip—fishing for votes and fish! While sailing the high seas in Pacific waters he is not immuned from what is going on, for his radio keeps him in vital touch without the encroachment upon his time by officials and friends. But when he sleeps in quiet peace, he not only dreams of political potentialities but he must have harbingers in terms of bonuses, benefits and reliefs.

Yes, we are progressing in this machine age. Eight men build an automobile now, with modern steel cutting, where it used to take fifty-five men. Motion pictures talk; photographs transmit by air. After all, the labor saving machinery, for its manufacture, requires about the same number of machinists, laborers, draftsmen and office force, that are thrown out of work. There can be no substantial blame placed upon the modern machine for making idle men. This is an age of invention. Men not only invent, but they also make the machine to perfect their invention.—What is the real need, is lesser hours of labor for all workers.

The grape harvest is the potential duty of the present day throughout California, and huge preparation is instituted for caring for the delicate crop. The California brand which has no peer feeds countless millions of the world, with raisins, wines and other prepared products. But fresh grapes is the leading consumption just now. Lodi district is shipping 50 car loads per day, but there are sections in that Southland that are doing about the same. The Ontario and Riverside districts are loaded with fresh, luscious grapes of all various kinds. The California vineyards have come back with phenominal returns.

Benjamin Franklin, that wise sage of old, who published Poor Richards' Almanac, said: "He who shall introduce into public affairs the principles of primative Christianity will revolutionize the world." When he said this for his own time, it might surprise him today were he to return to earth and find that conditions are not radically changed within the past 180 years.

The Newspaper Guy

I see a man push his way through the lines
Of cops where the work of the "fire fiend shines."
"The chief?" I inquire—but the fireman replies,
"Gee, no. That's one of those newspaper guys."

I see a man start on the trail of a crook
And he scorns the police, but brings him to book.
"Sherlock Holmes?" I inquire. Someone scornfully cries:
"Sherlock H—. No: he's one of those newspaper guys."

I see a man sit in the seat of the great,
And they ask his advice upon matters of state.
"A diplomat, surely." But to my surprise
They tell me "he's one of those newspaper guys."

And some day I'll stand by the gates of gold,
And see a man pass through unquestioned and bold.
"A saint?" I'll ask, and Saint Peter'll reply
"No, he's only a plain, honest newspaper guy."

Newspaper Appreciation Week Being Celebrated

The present week is newspaper week, set aside by the National Editorial association, the American Newspaper Publishers association and other organizations to call attention to the work of newspapers for their community.

The Ocean Beach News receives many words of appreciation for the favors it does, and constructive help it gives to local civic and church groups. One this week from The Theosophical Society with headquarters on Point Loma, is timely and is given in full below.

The Ocean Beach News,
1922 Bacon Street,
Ocean Beach, Calif.

My dear Mr. Hartvigsen:

In enclosing two dollars which renews the subscription of your paper for a year to be sent to the Theosophical Institute, I take occasion of the opportunity to express to you our warm appreciation of the courtesies extended by you to us during this past year in the way of giving space to our notices in The Ocean Beach News.

We cannot help but feel that this too has been a source of gratification to our members in Ocean Beach and indeed that it has been a factor in their truly remarkable growth. The world is turning towards Theosophy with no uncertain step, and it is with keen appreciation that we find among the citizens of your town those who are truly open-minded and enlightened enough to embrace its noble ethics and high philosophy. It reflects credit on them and on their town.

With good wishes for the success of your excellent paper,

Yours very sincerely,

POULTRY HELPS.

By E. E. Steele.

Contagious catarrh, or roup, attacks the eyes, nostrils and windpipe.

The cause is the same as simple catarrh or colds and the disease is very contagious.

The saliva and the discharge from nostrils carry the contagion to the drinking water and feeding troughs.

The first symptoms are the same as simple catarrh or colds, but as roup advances there is more fever, dullness and prostration.

The discharge from the nostrils at first is thin and watery, but it soon becomes thick and has an offensive odor.

The inflammation soon spreads from the nasal passages to the eyes and around the head and ears, the swellings reach the size of hickory nuts, and in time destroy the eye. The eye lids are swollen and held closed much of the time which prevents the badly affected bird from finding food.

The nostrils become completely obstructed also the obstruction spreads to the windpipe which causes loud and difficult breathing.

I have found the simple catarrh or mild cold spray effective in the treatment of roup, spraying over the birds on the roost every night.

Also using the sulphur ointment around the head and a small amount down the bird's throat three times a day.

Another method of treatment is to plunge the bird's head in a basin or bowl of any of the following solutions and hold there only a few seconds: boric acid, 1 ounce; water, 1 quart; or permanganate of potash, 2 drams; water, 1 pint; or peroxide of hydrogen, 1 ounce; water, 3 ounces; also one or two drops of 15 percent solution of argyrol in the eyes twice daily.

The houses should be kept clean and dry, well ventilated with no draft and well disinfected using the disinfectant spray, but be sure not to spray the disinfectant on the birds.

Disinfect when there are no birds in the houses, use cold spray over birds when they are on the roosts.

Kings County—Created March 22, 1893. This county was created out of the western part of Tulare county and took its name from Kings river, which, according to history and tradition, was discovered in 1805 by an exploring expedition and named Rio de los Santos Reyes (the "river of the holy kings"), from which it obtained its present name.

In the lower center of the great San Joaquin valley lies one of the smallest, one of the youngest, but one of the richest and most resourceful counties of the state. Kings county is known as "The Little Kingdom of Kings" because of the wealth and diversification of the products of this area. In 1852 there were only 100 settlers in the region now known as Kings and Tulare counties, and this area was a part of Mariposa county. In 1852 Tulare was formed, but it was not until 1893 that Kings came into existence by divorcing itself from Tulare. In 1908 about 100 square miles were taken from Fresno county and added to Kings.

Tulare Lake, at one time covering thousands of acres, a paradise for game and waterfowl, gradually has been drying up and as early as 1881 settlers began to take up land in the lake bed. After years of tremendous reclamation work, practically the entire lake bed now is under cultivation, producing abundant crops of wheat, barley, corn, alfalfa and cotton. Peaches are the most important of a large variety of fruit crops. Poultry raising is a rapidly growing industry and Kings ranks second in butter manufacturing in California. Kings has one of the greatest oil fields in the world, Kettleman Hills being mostly within its territory. The assessed valuation of Kings has nearly doubled since 1928. Population: 25,385. Area: 1159 sq. miles.

A COMPANIONATE HOME

A writer tells the story of a modern girl who said to a real estate agent when he wanted to sell her a house: "A home? Why do I need a home? I was born in the hospital, educated in a college, courted in an automobile, and married in a church; I live out of the delicatessen and paper bags; I spend my mornings on the golf course, my afternoons at the bridge table, and my evenings at the movies, and when I die I am going to be buried at the undertaker's. All I need is a garage. . . .

Start Conserving Eyesight at Home

A startling statement . . . nearly half the adult population of the United States has defective vision.

A test of 4800 5-year old children showed only 9% defective in vision. What causes this great increase as these children grow up?

Poor light in the home is one big cause which, although it works slowly, causes eye-fatigue which may ultimately impair the vision.

For your protection, all manufacturers of portable lamps PRONOUNCED CORRECT by the Better Vision Institute, have placed upon their product the identification tag of the I. E. S. (Illuminating Engineering Society).

Your nearest lamp dealer will gladly demonstrate I. E. S. Better Sight lamps and show you why they will give sight-saving aid second only to that of the eyesight specialist.

Boys and Girls Tell What Like To Read

What does your child read?

Reviewing a questionaire sent to 20,000 school children, Mrs. Don Horner spoke before the Ocean Beach PTA Wednesday afternoon, regarding motion pictures, radio and reading.

Choice of movies listed by boys were mystery, gangster, war and westerns, consecutively. Girls like musical revues, mysteries, historical. 600 voted for war pictures.

Quoting Thomas Wood Stevens, Mrs. Horner relates that "the villian in a picture really can do no harm—the hero can." "The villian is always punished". It was decided that boys liked western pictures best because of the activity, adventure and excitement in them. One boy was heard to remark upon leaving a theatre, "It was a funny western, there were no horses in it".

Boys choice of radio programs were Calling All Cars, Jimmie Allen, Amos 'n' Andy. Girls chose Myrt and Marge, One Man's Family and Jimmie Allen.

Only five percent mentioned having home libraries. Only 1000 boys answered that they had opportunity to go camping with their dads.

Boys favorite books were Tarzan, Treasure Island, Robin Hood, Tom Sawyer, Junior High students added Mark Tidd, Smoky and Senior High boys listed Count of Monte Cristo, Three Musketeers, Tom Sawyer and Call of the Wild.

Girls listed Little Women, Little Men, Story of Dr. Dolittle. Junior High girls listed Goodhousekeeping, Cosmopolitan second, and movie magazines last.

Newspapers: Over 80 percent of the boys and girls read newspapers regularly in high school, boys preferring funny paper, sports, front page. Girls liked the funny paper, fiction love stories and front page.

In the Sports boys listed football, swimming and basketball last. The girls voted for swimming, horseback riding and tennis.

In the hobbies it was learned that the main business of adults is to help children do better the things in which they normally and naturally will engage.

THE THEOSOPHICAL SOCIETY: POINT LOMA

"The Mystery of Birth" is the subject for the forum-lecture to be given by Irene Ponsonby at Theosophical headquarters, Point Loma, at 3 o'clock, Sunday, October 20. She will be assisted in answering questions by Laura Arteche. At the same hour a lotus-circle for children will be held.

In her introduction of the subject Mrs. Ponsonby will confine her presentation to a study of the reincarnating human ego, that part of man's complex consitution which lives after life. She will explain the influences which draw the ego back to the earth's sphere; speak of the links which lead it to its future family-to-be; the nature of its next body, and the process of reincarnation which it follows in its progress from and to the 'gate of Death', as taught by the age-old philosophy, Theosophy. Such a study into the mystery of birth gives to marriage and parentage a sacredness and seriousness which is sadly lacking in modern life.

Point Loma High School News.

A smashing attack, coupled with good blocking and tackling, gave Pt. Loma High school an easy victory or 32-6 over the San Diego Army and Navy Academy last Friday on the victors' field.

The Loman ball-carriers reeled off several nice runs which the Cadets had a hard time stopping. The line, not to be outdone by the backs, recovered several Academy fumbles, and blocked two Academy punts. All Point Loma players saw action.

The visitors put up a good fight, but generally, the Pointers had little difficulty in repulsing their attack.

Point Loma's first touchdown came during the opening minutes of the game, when, after a Cadet punt had been blocked by his team, Gerald Lutes took the ball over from about the Academy 20-yard line. Tichenor's try for point was good. The Lomans second touchdown also came in the first quarter, when Lutes again crossed the goal immediately after a 20-yard run by Tichenor. The try for point failed. Score, 13-0 in favor of Point Loma.

In the second quarter, a Point Loma man recovered an Academy fumble, and shortly after, Robinson, substitute back, scored on a 35-yard run. Robinson did not convert. Score 19-0.

In the third quarter, Lutes passed to Kovac for a gain of 27 yards, placing the ball on the Army and Navy two yard line. Tichenor scored, but his following attempt to convert failed. The final Loman touchdown was made when the Cadets tried to punt from behind their goal; Finley, a Loman man, blocked the punt, and a team-mate, Mixon, fell on the ball for a score. Tichenor converted. Score, 32-0.

Academy started a sustained drive, in the fourth quarter, from about the 50-yard line. Point Loma dug in at their goal line and held for three downs, but the fourth plunge by the Cadets succeeded just as the gun fired. The attempted conversion was not good. Final score, Point Loma, 32; Army and Navy Academy, 6.

ROOTERS UNIFORM CHOSEN

An official rooting section composed of twenty boys and twenty girls, has just been organized at Point Loma High.

Maroon and gold caps, white shirts, navy blue trousers, or skirts, maroon ties for the boys and gold for the girls, is the uniform chosen.

No name has been selected yet, but several are under consideration.

The rooting section will be present at each P.L.H.S. game.

Faculty sponsors are: Miss WillaB Brodie of the art department, and Dave B. Austin of the chemistry department. Both of these popular instructors are enthusiatic about the plans of the organization, which in addition to cheering the team, hope to work out some comic stunts to entertain between halves.

AWARD SCHOLARSHIP PINS

Scholarship pins were awarded to twenty Point Loma High school students Monday. They belong to Chap. 189, California Scholarship Federation.

The pins awarded were the toran semester type. When a student receives one of these torch pins four semesters out of six he receives the permanent Roman Lamp scholarship pin.

If he holds the torch pin all six semesters of senior high, he receives the C. S. F. pin and guard.

Bill Shreve, student body president, also a member of the Honor Society, presided.

President Hepner of State College spoke to the students. His talk was informal but he stressed the fact that students should have a goal. He urged a well-rounded school career including scholarship and activities.

May Sakamoto, last year's winner of the citizenship award at Point Loma, rendered a selection on the piano by Chopin.

Miss Gibson, faculty sponsor for the group, presented the students eligible for the pins.

SWEETWATER GAME TODAY

The Point Loma High school football squad plays its second Metropolitan league game with Sweetwater High school today, Friday, on Ross Field.

The Lomans are favored to win this game according to records thus far. As this season, however, has started out with many upsets and worthless "dope-sheets" forecasting the victory would be folly, particularly since four Loman men, Diaz, Lutes, Tichenor and Casselman, may be left out of the fight because of injuries.

The Reid's of "The Days of Saladin" fame, entertained the students at P.L.H.S. at the assembly Thursday. Both Mr. and Mrs. Reid are former Lyceum entertainers and thus know the art of holding attention.

At the senior high school assembly Raymnd Keck, told the students about conditions which give Ethiopia a more than even break to hold her own.

Parents of every school child and every school man and woman in the city and county of San Diego cannot help but be vitally interested in the Mattoon situation. Because of the pyramiding features of the Mattoon act, one tenth of all property in the county cannot pay taxes—including school levies. The burden is borne by the rest of us either directly or indirectly.

Of intense interest to readers of THE COURIER is the effect this situation has on the schools of the city and county. The schools, of course, must depend to a large extent on the collection of district taxes. Without the aid of district income, schools cannot function; as practically all state aid applies to salaries of teachers; maintenance costs are paid by district levies. Boards of school trustees have cut the maintenance costs in every way they possibly can.

It is unthinkable that our schools should close.

Without maintenance money, they must.

Hobo, Tramp, Bum--They Are Different

Very Distinct Class Lines Drawn Among These Groups.

To the average man the words hobo, tramp and bum are synonymous terms, used to designate a type of foot-loose, homeless specimen of the genus hobo. They are terms of derogation and opprobrium.

Not so! Before calling a hobo a tramp, or either man a bum be sure you say it with a smile. For there are very distinct class lines drawn among these groups of unskilled and itinerant workers.

A hobo is a hard worker of the migratory type. He is possessed of a keen sense of his own importance and value to the world that would suffer without his services. The wheat fields of the Southwest, the timberlands in the Northwest, the fruit lands in various parts of the country could not show a profit without the presence of the hobo at strategic moments. To displace him in the economic scheme of things would be to keep on hand well fed and employed the whole year around, thousands of men whose services are only required a few weeks or months a year. Another distinction: The hobo travels on wheels although the ticket office is not always a part of his traveling experience.

The tramp, on the other hand, migrates according to whim or chance. And he walks always. Having nowhere in mind to get, he gets there at his leisure. If he works, as he does now and then, it is because of necessity and not through any sense of personal responsibility to society at large. In the mind of the self-respecting hobo, the tramp is distinctly an inferior.

The bum is looked down upon and dispised, both by the hobo and tramp. The bum travels nowhere, does nothing and is nobody. He is a parasite of the city, begging, borrowing, stealing, loafing.

Clip this out and paste it in your book of etiquette. You may need it sometimes to save yourself from one of those embarrassing moments, warns the Knickerbocker Press.

Indian Summer

Indian summer usually begins some time in October, but it may not begin until November. According to the United States weather bureau it is not a definite period occurring regularly each autumn, and is not based on accurate meteorological data. Indian summer varies greatly in duration. It may occur once or several times during the fall and early winter, or it may not occur at all, and if it does it may last a day or two or several weeks. And in some years there are more than one of these periods of hazy, tranquil days.

Mineral Water Plentiful

In some countries mineral water costs more than wine, but at Althelde in Germany it is so plentiful that the streets are sprinkled with mineral water.

Glacier Advances

The glacier at Jacobshaven Greenland, is advancing 62 feet a day.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

SYNOPSIS

The future of the still youthful and comely "Widder" Marcia Howe, recently released by death from her idling husband, is a conversational tit-bit among housewives of the little hamlet of Wilton. Eligible bachelors and widowers also are interested. Marcia is lonely, and has invited her late husband's niece, Sylvia Hayden, whom she has never seen, to visit her. A stranger, on the verge of exhaustion, finds his way to Marcia's home. Secretly, he asks Marcia to hide a package containing jewelry. She does so. Elisha Winslow, town sheriff, brings news of a jewel robbery nearby. The stranger gives his name as Stanley Heath. Sylvia, by chance, discovers the jewels, and naturally believes Heath is a robber. She realizes that Marcia must have hidden them, and decides to say nothing, putting the gems back in their hiding place. Marcia admits to herself that she has altogether too deep an interest in her guest, but is powerless to overcome it. Heath has wired "Mrs. S. C. Heath," New York, saying he is safe. He also orders a man named Currier to come at once. Sylvia, in her room, bedecks herself with the jewels. At Marcia's approach she hides them there.

Therefore, a very different Marcia Howe responded to Stanley Heath's summons.

She was now all gentleness, friendliness, and shyly penitent.

Stanley, again master of himself, welcomed her with amazement. Could man ever fathom a woman's moods, he asked himself? Why this chastened and distractingly adorable Marcia?

Well, if he could not fathom her, he at least was grateful for her understanding.

Nevertheless he did mentally observe he had not dreamed her to be so many-sided or credited her with a tithe the fascinations he had so unexpectedly discovered her to possess.

"Here I am, Mr. Heath. What can I do for you?" was her greeting.

This time she did not hesitate, but went directly to the chair beside his bed and sat down. He smiled and, meeting his eyes, she smiled back. This was better. Heath sighed a sigh of relief.

"I've been thinking, since you went down stairs, about Currier. He ought to arrive late tonight or early tomorrow morning. He will start the moment he gets my wire. Although he will not know in which house I am quartered, he will have the wit to inquire, for he has more than the ordinary quota of brains. I don't know what I should do without him. I shall have him leave the car in the village and after he has delivered over the clothing he is to bring, he can take the noon train back to New York, carrying the jewels with him."

"I see," nodded Marcia.

She did not see. Nevertheless she heartily welcomed the intelligence that the jewels with their damning evidence, if evidence it was, were to be removed from the house. The sooner they were out of the way the better. If they were not damning evidence they at least were a great responsibility.

Suppose something were to happen to them? Suppose somebody suspected they were in the house?

"So," continued Stanley Heath, "I think sometime today when you have a good opportunity you'd better get the case and bring it up here. I shall then have it here in my room and I can hand it over to Currier without any trouble."

"I'll go fetch it now. Sylvia has gone to the village and this is a splendid chance," cried Marcia.

"Fine!"

"I'll be right back."

He heard her speed down the stairs and listened to her step in the room below.

Then there was silence.

A few moments later she came racing back, white and breathless.

"They're gone!" she cried. "The place is empty! The jewels are not there!"

Her terror and the fear lest her pallor foreshadowed collapse produced in Heath that artificial calm one sometimes sees when a strong nature reins itself in and calls upon its reserve control.

The man thought only of how to quiet her. Reaching out, he touched her hair.

"Hush, Marcia. The jewels will be found. Don't give way like this. I cannot bear to see you. The whole lot of them are not worth your tears."

"But you left them in my care. It was I who suggested where to hide them," she moaned.

"I know. And it was a splendid idea, too. I could not let that sheriff of yours peel off my clothes and find the diamonds on me. He isn't a man of sufficient imagination—or perhaps he is one of far too much. I am not blaming you—not in the least. We did the best we could in the emergency. If things have gone wrong, it is no fault of yours."

"But you trusted me. I ought to have watched. I should not have left the kitchen day or night," declared Marcia, lifting her tear-stained face to his.

"You have been there most of the time, haven't you?"

"I went to see them get the boat off yesterday."

"Still, some one was here. Sylvia was in the house."

"Yes, but she knew nothing about the jewels and therefore may not have realized the importance of staying on deck. All I asked her to do was to remain within call. She may have gone upstairs, or into another room."

"When she comes back, you can ask her. Now we must pull ourselves together, dear," went on Stanley gently. "It is important that we do not give ourselves away. Sylvia may know nothing and if she does not, we must not let her suspect."

She rose but he still held her hand, a common misery routing every thought of conventionality.

The firmness and magnetism of his touch brought strength. It was a new experience, for during her life with Jason, Marcia had been the oak—the one who consoled, sustained. For a few delicious moments, she let herself rest, weary and unresisting, within the shelter of Stanley Heath's grasp. Then she drew away and, passing her hand across her forehead as if awaking from a dream, murmured:

"I'd better go down. Sylvia will be coming."

"Very well. Now keep a stiff upper lip."

"I will—I'll do my best."

Even as she spoke the outer door opened, then closed with a bang.

"There's Sylvia now. I must go."

The girl came in, aglow from her walk.

"I'm awfully sorry I banged the door," she apologized. "A gust of wind took it. I do hope I didn't wake up Mr. Heath. Here's the marketing. And Marcia, what do you suppose? I had a letter from Hortie Fuller—that fellow back home that I've told you about. He's sent me a five-pound box of candy and he wants to come to Wilton and spend his summer vacation."

"Hush, Marcia. The Jewels Will Be Found."

The girl's eyes were shining and she breathed quickly.

"Of course I don't care a button for Hortie. Still, it would be rather good fun to see him. It seems ages since I've laid eyes on him. You know how it is—you get used to a person who is always under foot. You have to think about him if only to avoid stepping on him. And after all, Hortie isn't so bad. Thinking him over from a distance, he really is rather nice. Come and sample the candy. It's wonderful. He must have blown himself and sent to Chicago for it, poor dear! I'll let you see the letter, all except the part which is too frightfully silly. You wouldn't care about that. I don't myself."

Sylvia shrugged her shoulders.

Alas, this was no moment to talk with her, and artfully draw from her the happenings of the previous day.

Inwardly distraught but outwardly calm, Marcia took the letter and tried valiantly to focus her attention upon it.

To her surprise, it was a manly, intelligent letter, filled with town gossip, to be sure, yet written in delightfully interesting fashion.

"Your Mr. Fuller sounds charming," she said as she gave it back.

"Oh, Hortie is all right—in some ways." Patronizingly slipping the letter into her pocket, Sylvia shifted the subject. Nevertheless, a betraying flush colored her cheeks. "Now we must start dinner, mustn't we? Don't you want to ask Mr. Heath which way he prefers his eggs—poached or boiled? And Marcia, while you're there, do put a pair of fresh pillow-slips on his pillows. The ones he has are frightfully tumbled. I meant to do it this morning."

As the door closed behind the elder woman, artful young Sylvia smiled.

"There! That will keep her busy for a few moments at least. I know those pillow-cases. They fit like a snake's skin and are terribly hard to get off and on."

She crept into the hall and listened.

Yes, Marcia and Stanley Heath were talking. She could hear her aunt's gentle insistence and the man's protests. That was all she wished to know. The pillow-cases were in process of being taken off.

Up the stairs flew Sylvia, to return a second later, the jewel case swathed in its loose wrappings.

"If I can only scramble it in there before she comes," whispered she. "I shall draw the first long breath I've taken since last night."

An anxious interval elapsed before the brick was pried out and the case slipped beneath it. Nevertheless the feat was accomplished, and triumphant, relieved, happy Sylvia set about preparing dinner.

What a long while Marcia was staying upstairs! Why, one could change a dozen pillow-slips in this time.

"I guess they are tighter than I remembered them. I needn't have rushed as I did," pouted Sylvia. "What can she be doing?"

When at last Marcia returned, something evidently was wrong.

"What's the matter?" demanded Sylvia. "Is Mr. Heath worse?"

"Worse? No indeed. What made you think so?"

"You look fussed."

"Do I? You'd be fussed had you wrestled with those pillow-slips as I have," was the reply. "Either the pillows have swelled or the cases have shrunk frightfully. Well, they are on now, anyway."

"Come and get dinner then. I'm starved. My walk has made me hungry as a bear. You must go out this afternoon, Marcia. It is a glorious day and you need to be pepped up."

To her surprise, Marcia demurred.

"Thank you, dear, but I think I won't go out today. I'd rather sit here and read."

"Nonsense, Marcia! You're getting middle-aged and lazy. You'll lose your nice slim, hipless figure if you don't watch out."

"I'm too tired to go out."

"The air would rest you."

"Not today, dear," Marcia said with finality. "I have some mending to do and lots of other little things that I have been saving up for a long time. Since I prefer to stay, why don't you tramp up the shore and see 'My Unknown Lady'? She is beautiful and you haven't seen her yet."

"I'd love to—if I cannot coax you to go out."

"You can't. I'm adamant on not stirring out of this room."

"Well, if your mind is made up to that extent, I suppose there is no use in my trying to change it. I would like to see the boat."

"I'm sure you would. Stay as long as you like. There will be nothing to do here. Mr. Heath will probably sleep and in the meantime I shall get my sewing done."

As Marcia spoke the words, her mind was busy.

So Sylvia had not stirred from the kitchen on the previous afternoon! The theft of the jewels must, then, have taken place during the night.

Nevertheless, she was puzzled, for she had no memory of finding anything awry when she came down at sunrise to lay the fire.

When had the gems been taken, and who had taken them? No wonder she craved solitude to ponder the conundrum! This, however, was not the paramount reason she desired to be alone.

Despite the enigma of the jewels; despite the mystery surrounding Stanley Heath, deep in her heart something that would not be stilled was singing—singing!

CHAPTER VI

In the meantime, the throng of neighbors Sylvia had precipitately left in the village post office had received their mail and reached that anticipated interval for gossip which never failed to be stimulating.

Clustered about the counter loitered the standbys.

Zenas Henry was speaking:

"A mighty fine little girl—that Sylvia," commented he. "A high stepper! We'd oughter tie her down to Wilton so's she won't go back west. She's too pretty to be spared from the Cape."

"I figger you'd have trouble keepin' her here," rejoined Sam Nickerson, the postmaster. "She's got a beau in her home town. Had a letter an' a box of candy from him today. Same writin' an' same postmark on both of 'em, I noticed."

"Didn't by any chance see the name, did you, Silas?" Eleazer Crocker inquired.

"Wal, come to think of it, it did catch my eye. You know how such things will. Fuller, he's called. Horatio Fuller."

"Horatio Fuller, eh?" Eleazer repeated. "Kinder high soundin'. Wonder who he is? From Alton City, you say."

Silas nodded.

"That was the address."

"Never heard of the place," Capt. Benjamin Todd put in.

Thoughtfully Zenas Henry stroked his chin. "If everybody knew where all the blasted places in the country were, what use would they have for maps? 'Twould put the map-makin' folks clean out of business. Say, Ephraim," inspired by a bright idea, "you're the mail carrier. You'd oughter be primed on the location of places. Where's Alton City?"

"Alton City? Hanged if I know. To hear you talk, anybody'd think 'twas my job to tote round the country deliverin' letters in person at the doors of every house in the United States."

"But you must have some notion 'bout geography. Ain't you got no pocket atlas nor nothin'?"

"I may have a small map somewheres; I carry most everything," Ephraim grinned. With deliberation, he began to disgorge upon the counter the contents of his many pockets.

FASCINATING TALES OF LOST MINES

©W.N.U. By Editha L. Watson

INTO THIN AIR

WHAT became of the buckskin bags full of gold that George A. Jackson buried in the corner of his cabin?

Jackson has been dead for many years, and if anyone else who knows the secret is alive, he has kept his knowledge carefully hidden.

Jackson himself was a man of prominence. It was he who, on December 31, 1858, went up Clear Creek alone (his two companions had gone after a band of elk), found hot springs, camped at the place and a few days later panned gold in a tin cup and made the first gold discovery of importance in Colorado. The place was the present town of Idaho Springs, where mines still operate and gold is still to be taken from the ground.

It was this man who went to Middle park in 1867 to prospect for more of the precious metal. He and his companion on the trip found gold in Buffalo park, but they also found unfriendly Indians and little or no water, so they drifted north along the top of the range. Four or five miles from Rabbit Ear peak they found gold again in a little creek, and by traveling upstream they came to a bar that held considerable value.

This was what they wanted. After doing some work at the location they went to Georgetown and organized a party of ten men, returning to the bar in the spring of 1868.

Now they built a cabin and a corral, for ten men needed something in the way of comfort and convenience if they were to devote their time to taking out gold. They worked pretty steadily, but Jackson took a little time out for whimsy, and carved his name on a tree at the corner of the cabin.

After a while $10,000 in gold dust, packed in buckskin bags, lay hidden below the earth in a corner of the cabin. That meant a thousand dollars apiece—not very much as fortunes went, but still a neat start.

And then Colorow and a hundred lively Utes decided to discourage the white men. They dropped in on an unfriendly call, and when they departed three men lay dead and the rest did not drag their feet as they headed for Georgetown. In fact, the seven who survived, with the exception of Jackson, seemed to feel that the peaceful East held a lure that surpassed that of the golden phantom, and shortly they left Colorado.

Jackson, being somewhat accustomed to such turns of luck, had no idea of leaving the gold in that deserted cabin. He told a friend about the cache, and the two started out to get it, but heavy snow turned them back and they were forced to delay the trip. The next spring, they planned, would see them at the cabin, digging up the gold. But that winter Jackson pulled his gun barrel-first out of a wagon, and the accidental discharge of the weapon caused his death.

Fortunately, his friend knew the location of the cabin. He shared the knowledge with another man, and spring saw them up in the wild country where Jackson had found the gold. On Walton creek, near where the old Steamboat road crossed, they found the cabin and the corral. They also found the tree with Jackson's name carved on it. This was the place, without a doubt.

And so they dug in the corner of the cabin, among the rubbish which remained as souvenirs of the ten energetic miners. They dug in the other corners, too, and in the corral, and outside, and by the tree.

Gold does not vanish into thin air—unless some one aids it in its disappearing act. But who had been there since Colorow and his band?

Just another mystery to add to the many strange happenings which make dramatic the history of the West!

GOLD TO THROW AWAY

FOUR men stood on the heights above Salt river, and looked down, a thousand feet below them, to where the water flowed between the bluffs. One began picking up stones and throwing them into the space below. The larger they were, the better splash they made.

A good-sized rock lay near the edge of the chasm. What a splash it would make! The playful one tried to push it, but it was too heavy, and one of his friends went to his aid. At last they dislodged it, and it rolled over the brink; it fell down into the river below, and the mighty splash it made caused the water to dash madly away from it for a moment. Then it disappeared, lost forever below the ripples in that inaccessible canyon.

As it had rolled and slid toward the edge of the bluff, the rock looked yellow. As it hurtled downward the sun caught it, and it gleamed. The four men watched it until it vanished. Then they turned toward each other. Every face wore a number of tangled emotions.

They had learned, too late, that the "rock" was gold!

Value Set on Man's Life

By early Teutonic custom or law, wergild was the money equivalent of a man's life. It was a price which, when paid to the relatives of a man murdered or killed accidentally, absolved the culprit.

Frock That Puts Accent on Youth

PATTERN 9343

Always a good beginning, this youthful tailored collar on the simple yoke makes a demure foil for the dainty softness of the bodice. The prettiness of the chic frock is furthered with a graceful flare sleeve—or it may puff, if you prefer. The results are so satisfying you'll find it real fun to run up this little dress in a dainty printed silk or cotton. A soft handkerchief linen would be stunning, too, and so easy to tub. Buttons and belt can pick up a color in the print and make a striking accent.

Pattern 9343 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3½ yards 39-inch fabric. Complete, diagrammed sew chart included.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Send your order to the Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighteenth Street, New York, N. Y.

HITCH-HIKING FLY SPREADS DISEASE

The common house fly is a hitch hiker. However, the fly doesn't bother to jerk a thumb and ask a ride; it flies into moving autos or even trains or airplanes without permission and often travels hundreds of miles before leaving its chosen vehicle.

This habit of flies traveling great distances on other power than their own has made local fly eradication campaigns less effective than the campaigners hoped. Cases have been found where a fly carried disease germs on its legs and body for miles and infected people in the community where it settled. No previous cases of the disease were in existence in the new community and health authorities could find no other source of infection than flies.

Repeated warnings of physicians and health officials have apparently failed to instill a proper fear of the house fly in the average mind. However, a more thorough knowledge of the habits of a fly would increase the respect for this tiny insect, according to authorities on the subject.

Decent cleanliness in any home requires protection against the menace of flies. Whether a fly is home-born or a hitch-hiking visitor, he is a danger. Fortunately, an effective fly-killing program can be conducted in any home by the use of a reliable fly spray containing an ample quantity of Pyrethrins, a product derived from Pyrethrum flowers, which is death to flies, when sprayed in a fine mist.

At 7 o'clock Friday night the Camp Fire Girls met for a very interesting meeting. The business meeting was very short, such matters as dues being collected, the dinner discussed, etc., hurried through.

The more social part came when Mr. MacCauseland taught us how to tie certain knots, among them, the square knot, sheep bend, etc. We must know how to tie these and other knots in order to pass our Firemakers rank.

Jennie Lou Lee was our guest again. She intends to join the group at the next meeting.

Once more the meeting will be held in the evening at 7 o'clock, next Friday as there will be another football game on Ross Field in the afternoon —Katherine Coull, scribe.

A Ghostly Frolic For HALLOWE'EN

HALLOWE'EN parties rate a bit of additional time spent in planning them. Not many of us have the time to spend collecting woodland leaves, hollowing out dozens of pumpkins and doing the things which made Hallowe'en parties of years ago such momentous events. But let's see what can be done with a few yards of black and white cloth toward giving a smart silhouette Hallowe'en party.

Get Out Scissors And Ideas

Cut out masks for your invitations, using black cloth. Attach to the tie-around cords of the mask a white tag on which is lettered:

Heigh-ho—it's Hallowe'en
Don this mask, or you'll be seen.
Sneak around to our back door
When you come, we'll tell you more.

Place a black cardboard shade over a white light at your back door and be ready to greet your guests. Previously cut white cloth into as many ghost-shrouds as you have guests, and when each black mask appears at the door slip the wearer a white shroud. Pinned to each shroud is an envelope labeled PRIVATE TO YOU. On a piece of paper inside each envelope instruct each person as to whose ghost he represents. Use ghosts of living prominent persons—George Bernard Shaw, Joan Bennett, Hitler, Mussolini, or whomever you choose.

Guess Who!

After the ghosts have mingled in the living-room for a half hour or so, let each person write their guesses as to the various identities. The person making the most correct guesses receives a prize—a book of good ghost stories.

Then, masks off—and on to the feast, which incidentally is also a black and white affair and very delicious. The recipes serve eight persons.
